Job Work Neatly Executed at this Office.

Gen. Scott Brown had the misfortune to fall from his horse the middle of the week and sprain his ankle so as to disable him from walking. He is now confined to his room in consequence.

Mrs. Jouett has some very fine building lots for sale. They are located in South Frankfort, opposite the Public School building, and can be bought on reasonable terms. Call on Fred. Jouett, at F. V. Gray & Co.'s store.

The fashionable wide belts that are growing so popular with our young ladies are neither neat nor pretty. They give to the wearers of them the appearance of deformity, and are pronounced by the gentlemen of Frankfort "most abominable."

Will. Riddell went over to Cincinnati the first of the week, and now Capt. Taylor's store is fairly running over with the best and prettiest stock of house-furnishing goods ever shown in Frankfort. Call around and see them if you want anything in that line.

Dr. Howard A. M. Henderson is engaged to deliver his farewell lecture, "Extremes that Make Men Ridiculous," in several towns in this State before he takes his departure for California. We have no doubt that the people of this city would be pleased to hear this graphic, satirical, and facetious lecture, and will fill Major Hall to its utmost if he will consent to deliver it here at some time to suit his convenience.

At the meeting of the Frankfort Christian Temperance Union last Saturday night it was announced that Mr. Wm. O. Riddell, the boss stove man, would deliver an address at the court-house to-night, at 7 o'clock, on the subject of temperance. We hope our people will turn out in large numbers to hear this rising orator. He is a natural talker, and will, no doubt, interest all who attend the meeting and give him their attention.

Rev. T. D. Phelps, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Church, at Steadmantown, assisted by Rev. J. T. Head, began a protracted meeting at that place two weeks ago. The congregations are large, and much interest is manifested in the meeting by the whole community. There have been thirteen conversions so far, and the work goes on with increased interest. The ordinance of baptism will be administered to-morrow, Sunday, morning, at 10 o'clock, below Steadman's mill.

Cheatham—Garrard.

Some time before the appointed hour—12 o'clock, M.—on Thursday, the Christian Church was filled with the beauty and intelligence of Frankfort, who had come to witness the marriage of Dr. W. B. Cheatham, of Louisville, and Miss Nellie, daughter of Mrs. G. L. Garrard, of this city.

The gentlemanly ushers, Messrs. W. C. Sneed, Tom Macklin, Frank Rodman, and James Dudley, jr., were attentive and polite, finding seats for as many as could be seated.

The church was gorgeously but elegantly decorated with rare flowers and plants. Just in front of the altar, and suspended from the ceiling, were two floral ornaments representing two pipes of peace; around the columns that support the arch over the pulpit were gracefully twined vines; between these columns were suspended hanging-baskets, filled with beautiful plants, and in the center of the pulpit arose a magnificent pyramid of foliage plants, surmounted with a massive silver stand, filled with elegant cut flowers. The house was darkened from the outside and brilliantly illuminated with gas on the inside.

As the city clock proclaimed the hour of noon the bridal party arrived and entered the church in the following order:

The ushers advanced down the side aisles, two on each side of the house. When they had reached the front of the audience-room, they were followed by Mr. John L. Sneed and Miss Helen Lindsey, on the right, and Mr. Hugh Rodman and Miss Bettie Stewart, on the left. When these two couples had advanced about two thirds of the distance to the altar, they were followed by Dr. T. L. Taylor and Miss Sallie Sneed, on the right, and Mr. Tom Rodman and Miss Mary Huntoon, of Louisville, on the left. The couples who had approached on the right and left met at the altar and crossed over to the opposite sides, taking their respective positions. Mr. Henry White, of Lexington, and Miss Myra Warren, of Louisville, then advanced down the center aisle, and reaching the front of the altar they took their places, one on the right and one on the left, when the bridegroom and bride advanced down the center aisle to the altar, where Elder George Darsie was waiting to receive them.

Without exception, we think the ceremony was the most beautiful and impressive we ever witnessed. Mr. Darsie, seeming to feel the solemnity of the occasion, impressed the large audience with feelings akin to his own, and perfect silence reigned, except the subdued, sweet tones of the organ, while the young couple were made husband and wife.

The benediction was pronounced, and the bridal couple, followed by attendants and ushers, left the church by the middle aisle, and, taking carriages, repaired to the residence of the bride's mother, where an elegant dinner was served, only a limited number of relatives and friends being present.

The newly married pair left on the 2:40 P. M. train for their future home in Louisville, amid the farewells and best wishes of a host of friends.

It may be a matter of interest to the ladies to know that the bride wore an elegant cream colored satin dress, plain, with striped overskirt, elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes lace, a bridal veil, ornamented with orange blossoms, covering the whole.

FRANKFORT, OCTOBER 4, 1879.

The City's School Fund.

We understand that the city's school money is being used in a manner that is not authorized by law. As we have it from those who ought to know, the act to create a school fund by a lottery, for the benefit of the schools of Frankfort, requires the City Council to invest the principal of said fund in good, first-class securities, and that the interest arising therefrom is to be used for carrying on said schools, and for no other purpose. According to our information, neither of these provisions are being carried out by our City Council; but, on the contrary, both principal and interest are being used in building water-works, paying salaries of city officers, and other ordinary city expenses. If this be so, then certainly it is the duty of some person or persons to take prompt, immediate steps to right, as far as possible, the wrong that has already been done to our educational interests, and to stop any further doings of a similar character. It is, as we understand it, a general principle of law that no municipal corporation can borrow money, or make a binding contract for that purpose, without a special power being granted in its charter. This being the case, the city school fund might, every dollar of it, be used by the Council, as borrowed money, for ordinary city expenses, and no action could be maintained against the city to recover it back for the separate use and benefit of said fund. How important, then, is it that every cent of that sacred fund should be kept inviolate, as the law requires, for the sole and only use of educating the youth of our community. It must be the special duty of some official or officials to attend to this matter, and, if so, they should investigate it without delay, and act promptly in the discharge of that duty. This, the more particularly, as we understand that there is no money in the treasury to pay the current expenses of our schools now in session. It is the duty of every parent and tax-payer in the city to inquire into this matter. If we are to keep up extravagant city machinery, let us not do it at the expense of the education of our children.

What a treat is in store for the ladies of Frankfort and vicinity next Thursday, 9th inst. Mrs. Ward's fall and winter opening takes place at that time, and such a display of fancy trimmed goods, fine French bonnets and hats, ostrich tips, birds' wings, plumes, flowers, ribbons, velvets, silks, satins, and—and—do please read her advertisement in another column of this paper. Surely if anybody ever knew how to please the fancies of our Franklin county ladies, that person is Mrs. Ward, and she has excelled all her former efforts in making her fall and winter purchases.

Butter come—it came.

Next Monday is County Court-day.

Another church wedding on the 15th.

City Council meets next Tuesday evening.

Christian Temperance Union at the court-house to-night. Everybody is invited.

Royal Templars meet next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Don't forget the hour.

There's a prospect of having three circuses with us this month. This is not bad for October.

Mr. M. E. Jett has rented his South Frankfort livery stable to Mr. Jos. Maratta, of Spencer county.

The Frankfort excursionists arrived home from Cincinnati about half past one o'clock Wednesday morning.

Messrs. J. & J. M. Saffell are raising the roof of their Cedar Run Distillery and otherwise improving it, preparatory to opening up the fall season.

Mr. Jacob Smith, who lives on the Frankfort and Flat Creek pike, tells us that he has two peach trees and one apple tree on his place that are now in bloom.

The sun got squarley down to business Tuesday, and shone with an intensity that would have done him credit in August. The mercury fairly spread itself—indicating 88° in the shade at 3 o'clock, P. M.

The junior is under obligations to Mr. F. A. Crutcher, of this county, for a sack of fall pippin apples. They are as fine as we have seen this fall, and are delicious. We thank you, Frank, and hope your shadow may never grow less.

Messrs. Owen T. and Nat. F. Richardson have purchased of Mrs. Dr. E. H. Black the lot on the south-west corner of Shelby and Campbell streets, South Frankfort, for eight hundred dollars. Mr. Nat. Richardson will build on his portion of it in the spring. And still South Frankfort improves.

The excursion train which left this place for Cincinnati last Monday had eight passenger coaches filled to the brim, with all the aisles and platforms crowded. Three coaches contained white people, and the other five and baggage car contained colored. Two cars wouldn't hold the excursionists from Frankfort.

Dr. H. A. M. Henderson will deliver a lecture on "Extremes that make men ridiculous" at Paris to-night.

There will be a meeting of Esoteric Lodge, No. 532, A. Y. M., on Wednesday, the 8th inst., at 7 o'clock, P. M. Let all the members be present.

By reference to the column of "Births" it will be observed that the population of Franklin county is greatly on the increase, in point of numbers if not in size.

At the administrator's sale in this city this week, Mr. Robt. C. Church bought eight barrels of twelve-year-old whiskey, Hawkins' make, formerly the property of James Graham, deceased.

Miss Florence Mitchell, of whom the Louisville and Lexington papers speak most flatteringly, will appear at Major Hall next Wednesday evening. Frankfort should turn out en masse to greet this charming young actress, and show their appreciation of a woman's pluck and perseverance. Let Major Hall be crowded next Wednesday evening.

Foots & Evans' express wagon broke down on Main street Wednesday morning, almost demolishing it. An enterprising insurance agent, witnessing the accident, rushed out of his office and shouted, "Are you insured, boys?" This was very funny to the by-standers, but to the owners of the express wagon it was a most Payne-fal joke that the boys were not in a condition to appreciate.

A premium of $125 is offered at the Atlanta, Ga., fair for the best three loaves of light bread, made by a young lady. Miss Mary B. Wiard, formerly of this city, but now of Atlanta, Ga., will contest for the prize, and we hope she will carry it off. Her father has ordered a barrel of the very best flour that can be made by the City Mills, and if there is any virtue in good flour, Miss Mary will have a "walk over" for the premium.

A county Sunday-school Convention began this morning at 10½ o'clock, in the Christian Church, and continues to-day and to-morrow. Messrs. C. C. Cline and P. H. Duncan, the State officials of the Christian Church, in the Sunday-school work, will be present, and besides them, delegations from the various schools of this and adjoining counties. The proceedings will be very interesting and profitable to the public generally, and specially so to all Sunday-school workers, to whom a cordial invitation is hereby given.

The series of meetings, begun at Hardinsville last Monday week, and conducted by Elder George Darsie, closed Thursday night, with nineteen additions to the church. The meeting was productive of great good in the community, much interest being manifested from the beginning. The house could not accommodate the vast throng that assembled to hear the preaching of the Gospel last Sunday night, many people being obliged to remain outside at the doors and windows. Mr. Darsie preached the Word with intelligence and fervor, and greatly endeared himself to the people in that community. He is an earnest worker in the Master's vineyard.

Mr. H. J. Hyde made a temperance speech at Antioch school-house last Sunday night to a good audience. Five signers to the pledge was the result of his efforts. This is said to be the champion temperance neighborhood of Kentucky.

Frankfort was alive with handsome new fall suits last Sunday. The ladies, in their new dresses, were happy in the exhibition of their good clothes, while the boys, in their new suits, were lodging around street corners and in the alleys, looking as if they had been caught in a mean act every time they were obliged to come face to face with a friend. Why this is thus no man can tell, for truly our Frankfort tailors can beat the world on a perfect fit. Berberich's coats look as if they had grown on a man, so perfectly they fit.

Rev. W. T. Egbert, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Wallace Egbert, of Louisville, left this city last Monday morning for New York. The trip will be made through the country, Rev. Mr. Egbert riding on horseback, and his brother driving a light spring wagon. The journey is taken in hopes that it will be beneficial to the former, who has been in bad health for some time. When he becomes weary of horseback riding, Wallace will take the saddle and he the wagon. It is earnestly hoped by the many friends of Mr. Egbert that he may make the trip safely and his health be greatly improved thereby.

WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT.

Masons, Attention.

The members of Hiram Lodge, No. 4, A. Y. M., are hereby notified to be present at the next meeting, Tuesday evening, October 14, as matters of importance will be brought before the Lodge for consideration.

GEO. A. LEWIS, W. M.

E. WHITESIDES, Sec'y.

A certain stock trader of this county, who has not always been as steady and as sober as now, once went home at a late hour of the night, after having been out with some of "the boys" on a little spree. Now the aforesaid stock trader had a whole, some fear of his "better half," and he was not too boozy to try to get to bed on this occasion without allowing his spouse to smell the fumes of whisky on his breath. He studiously avoided conversation with her, and having prepared himself for bed, where his wife had already been for some time, he approached it very carefully, walking backwards to keep his wife from smelling his breath. When near the bed he was startled by hearing the partner of his joys and woes exclaim: "That'll do, John; you needn't try to hide your condition, for I can smell the whisky clear through your body. Stop your foolishness and come on to bed."

The True Ring.

In reading Geo. W. Bain's letter to the Good Templars' Advocate, we find an extract from the speech of a Kansas politician which has the true ring in it. If such an independence of spirit and manly, fearless speech was given expression to by a Kentucky politician it would be the death knell of all his ambition in this State, be it said to Kentucky's everlasting shame.

We take the following from Mr. Bain's letter:

Kansas is approaching a great event in her history, and those who believe that her future greatness and prosperity depend upon her sobriety, virtue, and intelligence, are deeply in earnest and greatly exercised over the constitutional question to be submitted to the voters next year, which will determine whether Kansas shall be free from the manufacture, sale and importation of ardent spirits as a beverage. It is to be a great battle, and one in which the license and anti-license the world over will feel a deep interest. The righteous side of the question has John P. St. John, Governor of the State, as leader, and a braver man never won a battle. He said to that great multitude at Bismark Grove what he said when public sentiment beat low and slow for the cause, and in the exciting contest for Governor—"I am an uncompromising temperance man, and if elected Governor shall favor a prohibitory law for Kansas." He has never given an uncertain sound upon any moral question; the people of Kansas believe in him and he believes in Kansas. He is confident of victory, and he is a competent judge.

Belle Point.

Meers, Carter Hale and Dick Brawner deserve the thanks of all for stopping some dangerous holes on Benson bridge.

Mr. Crutcher is erecting a fine workshop alongside of his blacksmith shop. Others should follow his example and build the best houses or none at all.

We have two of the characters in the new play—Conkling and one of the Spragues, and if the other Sprague would just happen along with his shotgun the play would be complete. So it Peirs to a man up a Beech(er) tree.

It is understood that the Benson bridge will be repaired at an early date, by order of the County Court. While we are grateful for this long-delayed favor, a suggestion as to how it should be done might not be amiss. The bridge is entirely too narrow for the travel it accommodates; besides, it is so situated that one is compelled to drive on it before knowing whether it is clear or not, and, on this account, parties are often put to great inconvenience by having to back off. If this only happened occasionally no great harm would be done; but when it is considered that the produce of the whole northern portion of the county is hauled over it, it will be seen that the annoyance is very great. It is also at least three feet too low—so low that the water and dirt from the pike wash on it for a distance of twenty feet. This is rapidly rotting the sills and flooring. It is said that new sills will be laid to replace the present well rotted ones. While this is being done make them a little longer, thus giving us a double track. While raising the bridge a few feet its position could be slightly changed without injury.

A Temperance Essay.

The following essay was read before the members of the Christian Temperance Union at Antioch school-house, near this city, last Sunday evening, by Miss Kate Glore, and was exceedingly well received:

Friends of Temperance, Brothers and Sisters:

Permit me to crave your indulgence for my embarrassment while, for the first time, I attempt a public address on a subject of vital importance to my sex. I feel I am doing God's work when I raise my voice against the evil of intemperance, an evil that has caused more sorrow to the mothers, wives, and sisters of our land than all other evils. It is time that our sex should feel the great responsibility resting upon them, to eradicate this moral leprosy from society—more infectious than that which polluted the House of Israel—because it destroys both body and soul, afflicts women and children with sorrow and woe and irretrievable ruin on those we love. Believing firmly that we can, by our influence properly directed, operate on man's moral nature, let us realize the great work to be accomplished; let us be up and working against the demon of intemperance.

Some of the fashionable dissipationists will say that woman's sphere is in the home circle; then I ask what brings more misery to the home circle than whisky? What constitutes the happiness of home if it is not temperance and love? A drunkard is incapable of making home happy. Then is it not within our sphere to encourage temperance, thereby adding to the pleasures of home by persuading men to become temperate? It makes them better husbands, more affectionate parents, and, above all, better Christians. Is not this God's work, and is woman debarred from doing her Savior's will?

Though the lords of creation would prevent us from doing this good work, yet our Heavenly Father permits us to live as close to his presence as man, and requires us to perform our duty in the establishment of His Kingdom on earth toward the great brotherhood of man, that it may redound to the honor and glory of His church, and the safety and happiness of His entire people. Should woman be instrumental in accomplishing this grand achievement it will be a holy victory, and, though it may not be recorded on the scroll of earthly fame, it will be by watching angels in God's Book of Life.

We must help to vanquish the enemy of God and man who dwells in the bar-room and in the whisky bottle—that enemy which depopulates earth and peoples Hell. Against this fiend I am resolved, by God's help, to work; and, whatever others may do, I, for one, fearlessly and truthfully say that no person who indulges in the use of intoxicating drinks shall be allowed the privilege of my company. I call upon all the young sisters to form this resolution and keep it if they expect to receive the plaudit of "well done good and faithful servants," or, at last, find inscribed upon their course in life "defeat, failure, and irretrievable loss." Let us encourage no other beverage than that whose Brewer is God—pure cold water, whose beauties we behold in the summer showers, or as it weaves its soft mantle for the wintry world, whose warp is the rain drops of earth, whose woof is the sunbeams of Heaven.

What tortures are inflicted by a disordered liver. Pains in the right side and under the right shoulder blade, headache, nausea, indigestion, costiveness, unpleasant taste in the mouth, and low spirits, are among its indicia. Besides, the saffron tinge it imparts to the skin is the reverse of becoming. But DR. MOTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS speedily dispel the symptoms by remedying the disorder which produces them.
